PRESS RELEASE | COMPANY ANNOUNCEMENT

Get It Plus Previews a Global Web and App Platform for E-Commerce, Services and Networking

The company, which says it was established in India in 1996 and now operates from the United States, Dubai and India, plans a platform for web, Android and iOS users.

DALLAS, Texas, November 12, 2026 — Get It Plus, a business platform led by CEO Duke Daniel and Founder and Managing Director George John, says it is preparing a global web and app platform for e-commerce, services, business opportunities, news and networking. The company says it was established in India in 1996, has grown into a globally connected business platform and now operates from the United States, Dubai and India.

The company says the upcoming platform will be available on the web, Android and iOS and will bring together e-commerce, global news, job listings, real estate, automotive listings, e-learning and networking. It says its goal is to connect people, businesses, products, services and opportunities through reliable platforms and professional partnerships.

The company says the main products it deals in are gold bullion, fuels, oil and gas, and cryptocurrencies. It has not provided licensing, registration or pricing information for these products with this announcement.
